

maritime devcon

a developer conference

To Potential Maritime DevCon Sponsor,

Thank you for your interest in supporting our event. We've provided the information in this letter to help you get a feel for what our event is all about and what sponsoring it would mean to you.

Maritime DevCon is an all-day developer conference designed to connect, inspire, and educate software development professionals and professionals-to-be. We are now entering our third year of the conference since it's re-invention in 2015.

We are working to help create a collaborative, positive, respectful and inclusive community within the maritimes for all those working in the technology development industry. Some stats from our event should give you an idea of what our event is like.
